

32nd Path The World/Universe

The thirty-second path is sometimes referred to as 'Path of the Terrible Tau', I'm sure that's not selling it as something you want to rush into! Terrible here means ground shakingly amazing; however, it is about moving into a greater understanding through sorrow, discipline and results based on an honest view of the worlds both inner and outer.

Malkuth - Yesod 'The Administrative Intelligence, that directs the stars in their course.'

Here your attention is drawn to myths and legends that involve descending into the underworld, that's the one that lies within you not some gateway defended by terrible creatures. A journey into your own subconscious to seek the treasures that await and to learn to work with or transform your own habits and cycles by recognising them. Saturn offers structure, a way to put form into your life that directs universal forces in a container rather than being total abstract.

You have met Saturn before, in the realms of Binah, and there some correlation here as the divine feminine energy, Malka and the Moon, is drawn down to nurture your goals,

Guidance

Are you really prepared to investigate the worlds within your world? Can you become more aware of your own subconscious needs to bring them into manifestation or to release those that no longer serve you? Here you meet that part of you that walks in the shadowlands, the path you take to help you better connect with the astral worlds as well as the path you've taken to be here, incarnate from those very same worlds. It's rebirth and death, to descend and to ascend, first know where you stand perhaps. You could be questioning what you have, what treasures lay in wait in the depths of your subconscious and how to reach them, how to use them? You're being asked to admit to your greatness as much as being asked to acknowledge your flaws. Discriminate, find what you want to cleave to you, release idleness and embrace the independence a life in control brings you.

Foresight

Recognise your desire to go deeper to fully understand what makes the world around you tick and allow yourself the space to descend into your own inner workings and to fully engage with the subconscious worlds that hold so many gifts and control so many challenges.

Revealed

This path runs between Malkuth to Yesod and is often seen as the path of birth and death. The Watcher of the Threshold can also be met here, a manifestation of the fears that bar your way to transformation. See them, acknowledge them, defeat them.

Activation

As you descend you ascend, as you seek your own deeper truths you enlighten yourself and begin to know yourself on a greater level. This is a turning point, embrace the work or turn away? Make a choice.
