

ARIES
JOURNAL

March 21st - April 19th

The first born, the start of the wheel and therefore the sign most likely act like a baby! Demanding and needing constant feeding, to a certain extent that is true but it's a little simplistic. If there is going to be trouble it's going to come from rushing into things rather than stopping and looking where they are going, hurrying isn't a good idea when they are dealing with pretty much anything.

Although they are likely to be creative and very argumentative – both traits are positive if used properly – they are probably going to be frustrated when things won't go at the pace they want. Patience isn't an easy thing for them which is why they should consciously take a step back when they find those frustrations moving in. Meditation isn't easy, for them. They would rather be up and doing rather than sitting thinking which is why they may be better thinking along the lines of contemplation; active meditation.

Now a look at creativity. It's not always about drawing pictures or making clay pots, it's wherever and whatever they want – that's what creativity means, creating something from nothing, making things happen. Astrologically they are ruled by Mars and he is impulsive as well as fiery, why not give in to those creative urges, act on that impulse and see where it goes would be Aries advice.

An Aries will usually take the biggest slice of pie at a family gathering, not because they are greedy or don't care about anyone else, far from it, it's because they see it as theirs, something I truly admire in them. In an argument Aries will go off, I mean really go off, but two minutes later, grievance aired they will have moved on, offering tea and a small piece of cake to others. Whilst the rest of us stew for days.

Aries is meant to be in front, just make sure they stay there and aren't taken over by those who may have been slower at the start, but more thorough with their preparation?

Traditional character traits

Adventurous, courageous, enthusiastic, confident, creative, selfish, impulsive, foolhardy.

NOTES

What Aries traits do I observe in those born under the sign?

Where you do I show those traits in my own life? Where can I rush in without thinking?

Mars in Astrology ♂

Mars is the ruler Aries, a pushy planet usually associated with war and destruction, but in truth he's about action, fire and forging ahead. His rulership of Aries is obvious when you think of his pushy nature, his colour is red and he's good at breaking through tough times. Mars also rules Scorpio, he can be thought of as a lower aspect of Pluto and by lower I mean more personality in his role as an inner planet.

He goes retrograde about once every two years and takes about a year and a half to go all the way around the twelve signs. As he is a personality planet he's not one that affects great swathes of generations, you're less likely to share a Mars placement with folks than you are with outer planets.

Some believe that children work from their Mars placement rather than their Sun sign until early teenagers, consider this in your own chart. Find Mars and ask if this is how you behaved in your youth?

- Mars rules Aries, associated with Scorpio too.
- Mars is uncomfortable in Taurus and Libra, loves Capricorn
- He takes around a month and a half in each sign
- Mars is pushy, fiery, creative and energetic
- Mars rules the head, muscle and sinew
- At his worst he is argumentative and aggressive
- At his best he is a leader, forthright and dynamic

The symbol looks like the symbol for Male energy, also Iron

Other correspondences are: red, orange, rubies, thistles and the Ram

NOTES

My own Mars is in what Sign, what does it mean?

How can I work with the positive aspects of it, and understand the challenges?

Mars in Tarot

The Tower

Number – XVI

Nature – Destruction of old structures that no longer serve you.

Aim – Truth and enlightenment out of the blue.

Strength – Working through a time of major change, change for the better.

Weakness – Changing things for the sake of it; or worse still just for the hell of it.

We all like to feel secure but sometimes the walls we build around ourselves to protect and perhaps to keep some people out, end up keeping us in and away from experiencing life. In this card you see a tower, usually a strong building, being struck by lightning and crumbling. This suggests that no matter how strong and how high you build something it takes one event, one bolt from the blue to shake it and send it tumbling down. This card speaks to me of just that, an impending event that hasn't been sent to bring turmoil (but it might) it has been sent to make you realise you are too detached from a situation and without your involvement things are going to get a whole lot worse. This is a sleeve rolled up and get stuck in card for me – don't shrink away from conflict.

Aries Card

The Emperor

Number – IV

Nature – Rulership, in control and leadership.

Aim – The right thing to be done, rules to be observed.

Strength – Creative, action, objective responsibility and positive force of change.

Weakness – Dictatorship, inflexible, harshly spoken, action without intuition.

This very strong figure is associated with Aries and all those traits apply. He is of course on his throne telling everyone he is in charge and the Ram tells of his virility and ability to lead. He wants to see some courage in the face of adversity and reckons the only way to have that is to speak up rather than lurk in the shadows of mutterings and back biting – he may have a point! For females this card can suggest taking on a more active role or perhaps reminding them of their own creativity and the need to be assertive in making others see the same. When I see this card to me it means action stations, it speaks of a time to get on with things rather than sit around and wait for them to happen.

NOTES

Where could I be more assertive?

What projects need a bit of push, some extra creative energy?

Archangel Khamael

Guidance

What are you putting down to Karma? Are you sending some the way of another, insisting they will get theirs? Karma is much misunderstood, even in the act of wishing someone gets theirs you're creating karma. Watch what chains you're forging right now, be mindful of creating more work for yourself through rushing things or deploying thoughts of revenge, you may sting yourself. The breaking of Karmic chains is your responsibility alone, no creature earthly or heavenly can work through your Karma for you and here's a chance to do just that, to let something go and fully let go will bring you lightness where once you felt bound and to let go with pure love. It's time to work on what you've created, to take responsibility, fully. There is no judgement in Karma, only cause and effect and you may be hanging onto the thought that you could do better. Dismiss it. There is no judgement, there are today's challenges and how you deal with them.

Foresight

Dragging you back is what you could have done, what you should have said and nothing will slow you down more than a trip down that road. Choose to forge another way ahead, be mindful of the chains you drag and whether you need to drag them at all. Let go of what you no longer need and have dealt with over many, many past lives and let go of it with pure love.

Revealed

The Archangel Khamael sometimes appears in armour, usually red armour. He's the Archangel of Geburah and as such he's the one we go to to have our old and outworn Karma removed. But. He won't remove anything you have not fully cleared. His association with Mars, the astrological signs of Aries and Scorpio offer more insights into the power the One Who Sees God.

Activation

It may be time for a past life regression, time to understand the connections you have carried through and what has run its course. Always finish by releasing the chains and sealing them with pure love.

NOTES

How do I resonate with Khamael's energy?

Meditate on the name or image.

What information comes you?

Tarot Spread for Aries Season

1. What is the major theme of Aries season for me?

2. What brings connection to my personality self?

3. What action needs to be taken?

4. Message from Khamael.

NOTES

What synchronicities happened this month?

I found Aries energy working through these events

I noticed Khamael's energy here

My Tarot/Oracle cards revealed this

One motivational sentence to sum up Aries Season.

