Gemini May 21 – June 21

Versatility is a word often used when it comes to Gemini, but when does versatile turn into having too much to do to be able to finish what you started? There's something to be said for breaking tasks down into smaller modules and discipline, things that aren't natural to Gemini but necessary to make the most of their huge capacity for logical thought. Boredom is usually at the heart of their wanderings, preventing it is important to them. The the best way for Gemini to learn is to take on more than one discipline at a time, that seems to fit the way they work, a word of warning, more than one, less than three!

As a sign that's ruled by the element of air they are quick witted and use their mind rather than their emotions, that doesn't mean to say they don't have emotions it simply means that even if they feel something to the bottom of their boots they won't do anything with it until they've applied logic. There are many occasions when this will stand them in good stead, but finding a balancing point where both thoughts and feelings can play their part would be better.

They are very keen to put their point of view across, but just how keen are they to listen to others? On the surface I am sure they will say they are very happy to listen to other people, before you know what's happening Gemini can see your lips moving but hear nothing but the voice in their head going me next, me next, me next!

They are happy with change, in fact it's more interesting for them than any other sign, but sudden change is something else, that's not so much fun and mainly down to the issue of control

The talkative side of their nature can lead them into careers within the media, communications and sales, where they can really thrive. They are very easy to spot as they don't take a breath between sentences. Just saying.

Butterflies and Bees are synonymous with Gemini, creatures that flit from flower to flower.

Gemini character traits

Flexible, talkative, youthful, communicator, nosey, nervous, inconsistent.

NOTES

What Gemini traits do I observe in those born under the sign?

Where you do I show those traits in my own life? Where do I chatter, approach with a cool logic?

Mercury in Astrology ☿

Mercury is never very far away from the Sun, and we all know he's famous for his retrograde, reverse, movement that brings chaos to travel and our schedules, or does he?

First, let's look at the retrograde thing. He doesn't actually go backwards, it's an illusion but for the sake of keeping it simple think of any planet in retrograde as a review, a look at what needs more attention and what gets a pass? All planets go retrograde, some for longer than others, this boy usually take about three weeks. BTW, the Sun and Moon NEVER go retrograde and remember they are luminaries, not planets.

In astrology Mercury rules the signs of Gemini and Virgo, he's all about communication and generally speaking he expresses it through the spoken words in Gemini and the written word in Virgo. He's also about short distance travel and can represent siblings and neighbours, especially males. Busy isn't he!

That's his whole thing, being busy, nipping in and out, whizzing around and generally being picky about stuff, but usually the small stuff. He's no one for hanging about, diving deep and taking a lot of notes; he gets bored easily. Oh look – squirrel.

- He's the ruler of Gemini and Virgo
- An Air element planet (He's Air of Air in Gemini, Air of Earth in Virgo)
- He's comfortable in Gemini, Virgo
- Not comfortable in Sagittarius and Pisces
- Takes about three weeks to move through a sign, depends on retrograde
- Represents communication, travel and the mind
- Rules the tongue and nervous system
- At his worst he's waspish, verbally cruel
- At his best he's witty, funny and quick to offer ideas

The symbol represents the wings on the god's hat!

NOTES

My own Mercury is in what Sign, what does it mean?

How can I work with the positive aspects of it, and understand the challenges?

Mercury in Tarot

The Magus (the Magician)

Number – I

Nature – Can do!

Aim – Become aware of all you are capable of.

Strength – Action, energy and ability.

Weakness – Ego, misuse of information, sometimes dangerous gossip.

As with all good magicians he has surrounded himself with his tools of the trade. The wand, sword, cup and disk shows he is master of the elements of fire, air, water and earth meaning he can manifest whatever he wants through the proper use of his talents. Activity is indicated a chance to get on and do things, and do things you must. Mischief can also be shown, usually it means someone who says a little more than they ought to at a time not appropriate but they will inevitably talk their way out of it! Mercury is the winged messenger of the Gods and as such he usually says things are on their way – listen carefully, keep your eyes wide open and trust in what you see and hear; but check the facts before acting!

Gemini Card

The Lovers

Number – VI

Nature – Unification, marriage, opposite attract.

Aim – Two become one.

Strength – A choice made from the depths of your heart, courageous decision.

Weakness – Indecisiveness, love as a fantasy, sacrifice of self for another.

This card may seem obvious to decipher and in some cases it is, but what if it comes up when the question is about something unrelated to love – say career for example. The duality of the card comes into play and suggests a choice has to be made, it won't tell you what that choice is, it will however show the answer lies within you and all you have to do is to be emotionally honest with yourself. The two people in this card represent the severing of one, in other words what is needed to become whole again? For me this card is always welcome when the question is about love as it indicates there is a strong bond, but does it mean physical love? That all depends again on the cards around it and it's position. When it isn't about love I take it as a sign I should look deeper and find my own solutions because I already know the answer.

Where could I communicate more clearly?

Can I find time to read more, chat with friends,
include more mind expanding moments?

The Archangel Raphael

Raphael Guidance

Take some time out, do something that brings energy your way, travel to place that inspire you or perhaps it's time for you to share your own healing gift with the world? Training in some of the healing arts such as Reiki or chakra therapy may have been mentioned to you or you feel drawn to explore them more, listen to your inner guidance. The colour green could have been your 'go to' for a few days, not your usual colour but something has brought it into your life and that something could be Raphael. Look for opportunities to travel coming your way and consider what's really wrapped up in those offers; travel broadens the mind, but it also feeds the soul and a malnourished soul can result in a sick body. Study the ways of the world and the way of you.

Raphael Foresight

A shift in attitude towards self-care is with you, how you look after yourself is being brought into question and perhaps you're wondering just how you can help heal others if you yourself are not feeling at your best? Study, find out just what you can do to make the transition from meh to marvellous and begin the journey.

Raphael Revealed

The Medicine of God is a great healer and his association with the element of Air comes through Mercury and as such he's the Archangel of Gemini and Virgo; a clear head is as important as a clear heart. Those born under these signs should call on him to help calm what is usually a very, very busy mind.

Raphael Activation

Wear green, carry green crystals and don't be fooled into thinking that must mean emeralds, the colour green is vibrational as much as the stone carrying it; activate his energy to promote healing and for protection whilst travelling.
